Yoel Koen

About Me

Hey there! I'm Yoel Koen, and for the last five years, I've been diving deep into the world of code, mostly teaching myself the ropes. I've spent a lot of that time tackling projects in web development and even building a few video games. I love the challenge of turning ideas into reality.

My passions are pretty simple: I love the hustle of learning new things, getting lost in a good book, and the satisfaction of problem-solving. When I'm not coding, I'm usually hanging out with friends and family or unwinding with a bit of gaming.

Right now, I know my way around a bit of C#, I'm actively learning Python, and my next big goal is mastering JavaScript to build some truly interactive websites.

My Picture

My Skill Set

- Languages: C# (I can build with it), Python (I'm learning fast!), HTML, CSS
- Focus: Web Development, Video Game Project Creation
- What I Bring: I'm a quick learner, great at figuring things out on my own, and I'm dedicated to seeing a project through.

Education

- Finished high school.
- Currently leveling up my skills at a coding bootcamp: hyperiondev.

Experience

Work History: I don't have any formal job experience yet, but my five years of dedicated self-study and project creation have taught me how to deliver results.
